

THE GAZETTE.

FRIDAY, MARCH 2
MUST EITHER FIGHT OR BACK DOWN.

The democratic free trade bill, prepared by Mr. Cleveland's secretary of the treasury, founded on the views of Mr. Cleveland's message, and approved by Mr. Mills, the chairman of the ways and means committee, has been submitted to the full committee. The bill provides for admitting free of duty after July 1, all wool, hair of the alpaca, goat and other like animals, wools on the skin, woolen rags, shoddy, waste and ends, and flannels, after October 1, 1888, it provides, among other things, for a 40 per cent duty on woolen and worsted cloth, hosiery and all manufactures of wool, not specially enumerated; and on flannels, blankets, knit goods, and women's and children's dress goods composed in part of wool.

The bill likewise makes some important reductions of the duties on pig iron, steel rails, bar iron, nails and all that class of articles. A dispatch from Washington says that the estimated reductions in revenue effected by the bill have not been completed in detail, but the aggregate, according to the best information in the hands of the committee is fixed at $55,000,000. This total includes about $22,250,000 on account of the free list; $17,250,000 on account of woolen goods; $1,600,000 on china and glassware; $850,000 on the schedule; something less than $600,000 on cotton; $1,500,000 on fax, hemp and jute, and sugar about $11,000,000.

The duty on sugar, which is the most important of all, has not been touched. It is not difficult to understand why the duty on sugar was allowed to remain. Louisiana is the sugar-producing state of the south. The democratic framers of the tariff bill did not want to disturb the sugar industry of that state, and therefore sugar was not included in the free list. There is no article on which a duty is imposed that is of such general use as sugar. It is an article of prime necessity. More than nine-tenths of all the sugar consumed in this country is exported. The import duties amount to some fifty-eight million dollars a year. If the administration wants to reduce the surplus and at the same time do the people a splendid service, why not give them free sugar? But that is not the kind of reform the democratic administration is seeking after, and so there will be no free sugar.

It may as well be stated right here that the Cleveland bill will not become a law. While it plainly shows the spirit of the administration, and of a majority of the democratic members of congress, it cannot pass. There are a score or more of democrats in the house who will vote against the bill and defeat it, should the ways and means committee report it to the house.

This tariff bill will cause a sharp fight in the democratic ranks. Mr. Cleveland has ordered a battle for free trade principles. Will the party do the fighting, or will it back down? It may speak from the lesson which experience teaches, the democrats will back down. They dare not go in a campaign on their new tariff bill, and therefore will eventually face both ways on the question. The Atlanta Constitution is a strong democratic paper. It is the foremost daily journal of the south, and it asks this question: "Can the democratic party carry either New York or Connecticut with the president's message as a platform?" Only four weeks ago the Constitution said the democrats could not carry either New York, Connecticut, Indiana or New Jersey on the message, and the prediction is a good one.

It is not because the New York Sun, democratic, does not like Mr. Cleveland, that it published the following paragraph, but because it is simply an expression of public sentiment:

I have talked with scores of members, both democrats and republicans, and with hundreds of democrats from all parts of the country. Outside of the federal officials there is not a particle of enthusiasm for President Cleveland. There is a deep-seated fear his re-nomination will shipwreck the democratic party. The masses, both in the south and southwest, want to see the demagogue break away from "Clevelandism," i. e., free trade and the reign of the hated muckrump. At this critical hour for democracy all eyes are turned to the imperial state of New York. The honor and interest of the democratic party are in its keeping. The Cleveland strikers say there is no fight, that all is lovely; that the man of destiny has no opposition. They know that this is false, but they cannot do otherwise. It is a game of bluff. An open campaign of thirty days would end Cleveland.

This statement was made by a Washington correspondent of the Sun, who affirms that he quoted nothing but facts in regard to the feeling against Mr. Cleveland. This is very much in accord with the recent statement of the New York World, that Mr. Cleveland has the fewest warm personal friends of any man who ever filled the presidential chair.

Dr. William A. Hammond, ex surgeon general, proposes to return to Washington October 11, 1888, where he is now building a house near that of Mrs. Logan, which will cost $100,000. Dr. Hammond was dismissed from the army by Secretary Stanton in 1864. He then registered a vow that to twenty-five years he would return to the capital fully reinstated in his position, and honorably cleared of all shadow of suspicion. His reinstatement took place in 1879, and he might have returned then, but he preferred to wait until his twenty-five years were completed. He left Washington under a cloud, with only $500 in the world. He returns a millionaire, and one of the best-known physicians in the country. Dr. Hammond is a good deal of a bombast, but nevertheless he has shown wonderful grit, and is entitled to all the honors he has won.

Senator Sawyer is quoted as saying that he believed Wisconsin would send to the National republican convention a delegation whose second choice would be Senator Sherman. Of course Rusk is expected to have the endorsement of the delegation, but there is an opinion that it will eventually go to Sherman. John Sherman will not get the Wisconsin delegation, and he ought not to bare it. He is one of the greatest financiers in this country. He is worthy the highest honors that can be paid him. But there are too many doubts about his strength to make him a proper candidate. He is too far removed from the great mass of the people to arouse much enthusiasm among them. Then, again, there are the doubtful states to look after. Leave them out of the cold and the chances of republican success are very much reduced.

The marvelous progress of reform under this administration, is shown by the following item from the St. Paul Pioneer Press: "Secretary Vilas has issued an order directing chiefs of divisions to keep watch and deduct from annual leaves all time that any clerk may spend at the lunch table over the thirty minutes allowed by the department. This shows what a giant of executive ability William Vilas is. No one but a brainy man, a statesman of broad intellect, a mind that can grasp at once all the difficult governmental problems, could ever bring to light such statesman-like wisdom as watching the lunch counter."

The North American Review for March opens with a discussion of "Permanent Republican Clubs," in which the opinions of twenty-two persons of prominence are expressed over their own signatures. Among the other contributions are "The President's Puzzle—The Surplus," by Andrew Carnegie; "The Two Messages," by John P. Irish; "Art and Morality," by Col. Robert G. Ingersoll; "Contract and the Remedy," by Senator W. M. Stewart; and "Col. Ingersoll on Christianity," by M. R. Zerbe. The current number of the Review is a splendid one, and should be widely read. The article on "Art and Morality" is of special interest.

If John Sherman is nominated by the republican convention the Chicago Tribune will be compelled to choose between Mr. Cleveland, General Tlek, and an elegant dish of corn—Kansas City Times. It will very likely choose the dish of corn, as it has not courage enough to support Cleveland. The republicans are bound to support protection. It is one of the cardinal principles of the party. It will be one of the chief planks in the platform. The republican candidates will heartily endorse the protective plank and on that plank will the republicans win.

The striking engineers on the Burlington system seem to be on the road to defeat. The company is doing some successful work in filling the places of the strikers with eastern men who have been out of employment. There is no doubt that the engineers have some cause to add fault with the Burlington's system of promotions, and it is a pity Chief Arthur could not have remedied the difficulty by a compromise. It may be compromised yet, but not without considerable loss to both the company and the strikers.

Ex-Mayor Carter Harrison, of Chicago, has made an enormous collection of "one during his visit to Japan. He has also made a special study of cremation, with the idea of introducing the system at Chicago on his return thither. There are a good many things Carter would like to cremate. His record as mayor, for instance, and some of his sayings and doings as a democratic leader. He can't bury them after the common fashion, and therefore he wants the furnace to help him out.

That Gray story will be more impressive when we hear from Voorhees and McDonald. Indiana is not to be carried this year with $2 bills.—Cincinnati Enquirer, Dem.

That is even so. Two dollar bills have been a great favorite in Indiana campaigns. This year the state will be carried by Gresham, or a man equally as good.

The youngest life-convict ever known in Ohio, is John A. Deal, who is only thirteen years old. Eight months ago he killed his mother—murdered her in a most brutal manner. He is so hardened to crime that his sentence did not seem to produce any depressing effect upon him.

The New York Prospector published the views of 230 manufacturers in New York state, who represent 35,145 persons employed by them. Of this number only 25 announce themselves as free traders, and they represent but 1,381 of the 35,145 hands employed.

A Woman's Discovery. "Another wonderful discovery has been made and that too by a lady in this country. Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its severest tests, but her vital organs were undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly and could not sleep. She bought of us a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption and was so much relieved on taking first dose that she slept all night and with one bottle she had been miraculously cured. Her name is Mrs. Luther Lutz." Thus writes W. O. Hammond & Co., of Shelby, N. C. Get a free trial bottle at F. Sherer & Co's. Drug store.

BURYING THE HATCHET.

A Deal Between the Brotherhood and the Knights.

COMBINING TO CARRY THE STRIKE.

Chief Arthur Calls His Men from the Reading Road, and the Knights Will Keep Away from the Burlington.—Progress of the Strike.

A TRUCE OF PEACE. Chicago, March 2.—An agreement was entered into yesterday between the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen and the Knights of Labor, which may, if it results as they hope, materially advance the Brotherhood strikers' cause and end a serious blow at the "Q" system. All yesterday Chief Arthur and Sargent were in consultation with Joseph B. Cahill, secretary of the Executive Board of the Reading Railroad Employees' convention, and James Gieson, a member of the Reading strikers' Grievance Committee. The object of the conference was to convince Messrs. Arthur and Sargent of the fact that their men had taken no part in the Reading engineers' plans to make an agreement whereby, if Arthur and Sargent would recall these men, the Knights would give up and hold their men off the "Q" system. The result of the conference was such that at 8 o'clock the following telegram was sent by Chief Arthur to the Pennsylvania chairman of the Executive Committee of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers:

"Henry Walton, Philadelphia, Chairman Executive Board of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers: See all members of R. of L. E. on the Philadelphia Reading Road. I have taken the place of the men that went out December 24, 1887, and request them to sever their connection with the company and I will pay them until they can find employment elsewhere, and allow the men now out to return to work. By doing this the bad will now existing will be obliterated, and will assist us to win our struggle with the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy. P. F. SARGENT."

Mr. Walton stated that he would at once transmit the necessary order to the Brotherhood lodges. Mr. Arthur then sent the following:

"Edward Kent, New York, Chairman Executive Board of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers: Go to Philadelphia at once and use your influence to get all Brotherhood engineers who took the place of Reading strikers to sever their connection with the company, furnishing them with the financial support of the Brotherhood. The Chicago, Burlington & Quincy are using the strikers to beat us in the Reading. We must elect them. P. M. ARTHUR."

Mr. Kent replied that he would leave for Philadelphia at once. Eighty of the striking Knights on the Reading, who arrived here Wednesday night, took the engine's place, returned last night. This settlement is regarded as an important move by the labor people, as it brings the Burlington into active sympathy with the Knights of Labor, an organization from which the Brotherhood has heretofore held aloof.

The importance of this move is quite plain. If the Burlington can be cut off completely from its anticipated source of help a more complete tie-up will result than had ever been dreamed of.

Chief Arthur has no doubt that his men will obey, and if the Knights of Labor are able to keep their men off the "Q" system it is seriously to be questioned whether the Burlington can keep up the fight. But, while Mr. Arthur seems confident of this, there are many who think the agreement amounts to nothing.

Mr. Joseph Cahill, the Reading men's representative, who won this shrewd deal, spoke truly of the matter. "I was sent here by the Executive Board of the Reading railroad employees' convention to see Mr. Arthur and Mr. Sargent with reference to the present strike. My object was to request the two chiefs of the Brotherhood to withdraw their men from their places which they took on the Reading road when our men struck."

"What have you agreed to do?" "To withdraw our men from the 'Q' system. They have not yet gone to work; they are awaiting orders. Between 150 and 200 are here now. Eighty of the Knights who arrived Wednesday night refused to take the place of the strikers."

"What will be the effect of Chief Arthur's orders on his men with the Reading road?" "I can't tell for twenty-four hours. I believe they will obey, however."

"And then what do you think will be the effect on the 'Q' system?" "I don't see how the Brotherhood can fail to win this fight. We all recognize that there is a direct effort on the part of all railroad corporations to wipe out labor organizations. The only way we can withstand this is by united action, and this I am glad to say, I have accomplished today."

The Reading men now in the city openly accuse Chief Arthur of causing the troubles on that road, but despite all the gesticulating and loud talk every one was in favor of a settlement. The Brotherhood delegates told the new-comers of the settlement between Arthur and Powell.

"We won't go back unless we are recalled by Corbin himself," shouted several of the Reading men.

"If Chief Arthur calls the Brotherhood men off the Reading road will you go back and fight your own battles?"

"Yes," said several, and this basis of settlement seemed to satisfy them all. A number of the Reading men, it is said, were not skilled engineers. A large percentage of them were firemen, and a great number were incompetent men who got free transportation to Chicago. The Brotherhood committees were after the competent men, and hired about half of the entire number. About a hundred of them, it was claimed, returned to Pennsylvania yesterday.

During the day negotiations between the strikers' committee and the Burlington people continued. Little progress was made, however, as the company refused to concede the demands made for the abolition of the classification system. After the settlement with the Reading men was made Mr. Arthur and his committee took courage and were a trifle less ready to make concessions to the company.

Unless the other cause giving aid to the Burlington Company a general strike among the Western roads will be ordered. Chairman Moore said complaints had reached him that several roads were violating the recently agreed agreement. He declined to say which were the offenders, but the Rock Island and the companies using the St. Louis bridge were in the list. Freight trains belonging to the Burlington and Rock Island are being run by the bridge company and some of the railroads connecting with it.

Secretary Debs, of the Firemen's Brotherhood, said that unless this assistance were stopped a general strike would be ordered within forty-eight hours. This would tie up all the traffic of the Northwest and make the engineers master of the situation.

It was rumored last night that the chairman of the engineers' and firemen's grievance committees of all the Chicago roads with Western connections would meet in this city to-day or to-morrow. The meeting will include representatives of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road, the Northwestern, Wisconsin, Rock Island and Minneapolis & Northern. These men will consider the question of ordering a general strike, and will probably take decisive action in the matter. Such a strike will probably involve other organizations than the firemen and engineers. The brakemen and switchmen have grievances. The Knights of Labor, it is said, will want to take advantage of the aid the Brotherhood can give them to have their grievances adjusted.

Mr. Norton said yesterday: "Four engines were put to work in the lumber district this morning, and two more will be started to-morrow."

The suburban and through passenger service is the same as yesterday. We hope to move local freight by Monday next, but will not try to start it until passenger traffic is in good shape. The Iowa divisional superintendent telegraphs that twenty freight trains are running there to-day, and a few freight cars are running on most of the other divisions. Two freight trains loaded with coal left St. Louis this morning for local points. Every train along the route is quick, and the company's property is well protected."

Captain White, Superintendent of the Railway Mail Service, said in an interview last night that all the mail service on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy system in Iowa and Nebraska, except on the Burlington & Carrollton and Burlington & St. Louis north-bound connections, were running regularly. There was irregularity also as yet on the Kansas City & Oxford railway post-office in Nebraska and west of McCook in Nebraska.

Dispatches received report little change in the condition of things along the lines of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy road. Yesterday there was more regularity in the movement of passenger trains on some of the lines, and in several instances freight trains were run. The tie-up was most effectual on the Kansas City line and in St. Louis.

A number of points report the arrival of engineers and firemen, supposed to have come from the East, who have taken out trains. Instances are reported in which the new men have yielded to the persuasion of the strikers and joined their ranks. There have been no acts of violence whatever, nor reports from all points agree that the strikers remain away from the tracks and stations, preserving perfect order. No instances are reported of strikers resuming work, and they are said to be confident of victory.

The blockade of Rock Island freight in Kansas City has been raised by agreement between the company and the Brotherhood. There continues to be rumors of the strike spreading to other roads, but there is no apparent foundation for them.

THE STRIKE STILL ON.

The Knights of Labor Engineers from Reading Still at Work.

MRS. LANGTRY'S TROUBLES.

On the Heels of the News of the Death of Her Father, the Jersey Lily Is Made Defendant in Several Suits at Law.

CHICAGO, March 2.—All of Mrs. Langtry's money, costumes, and furniture at McVicker's Theatre were attached at noon yesterday upon Miss Chicago Dome's $420 suit for salary due on contract. Papers are also out awaiting service in a suit by James Creighton, a jeweler in Edinburgh, Scotland, for $24,163 worth of jewelry supplied to Mrs. Langtry when she was playing in the shadow of Hollywood Castle, but never paid for.

CHICAGO, March 2.—Mrs. Langtry, the noted English beauty and actress, was prostrated Wednesday by the receipt of a cablegram announcing the death of her father, Mr. Le Breton, dean of Jersey. The dean was greatly respected, not only in Jersey but in England, where he was well known. He was 72 years of age, and his death was hastened by a severe operation performed upon him to relieve a lingering illness. Mrs. Langtry, on receiving the sad news at once cancelled her engagement at McVicker's Theatre.

Mrs. Langtry is in trouble with J. H. McVicker, who has sued her for $10,000 for breach of contract.

Declared Unconstitutional.

Montgomery, Ala., March 2.—The Supreme Court has decided the secedable Alabama colored university to be unconstitutional, on the ground that the money appropriated was part of a fund which had been declared by the constitution to be for common schools, and which could not be used for a university.

SUN HITS TO WIN.

READING, Pa., March 2.—The officers of District Assembly No. 221, composed of Reading employees, have mailed to every local assembly of the Knights of Labor in the country a circular setting forth that they have hopes of being able to win their fight and appealing for aid for the title men.
